

Reagan offers economic plan to wipe out deficit

CHICAGO (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is proposing a $90-billion cut in federal spending intended to cut the average American's federal income tax bill by 23 per cent.

Reagan made the proposal Friday as part of an economic package he said would wipe out deficit spending, cut federal income taxes by $25 billion and leave another $5 billion to reduce the national debt.

Reagan, a potential Republican presidential candidate, said he would transfer authority "in whole or part" from Washington to local government for administration of welfare, education, housing, food stamps, medical care and community development.

He said some states might have to raise taxes to provide services cut at the federal level. But he said there would be big overall savings to taxpayers because a layer of federal bureaucracy would be eliminated, local control would be more efficient, and states would be free to continue only those programs they thought were worthy.

Reagan, who says he will announce in November whether he will run against President Ford in Republican primaries next year, did not mention Ford in his presentation to the Executive Club of Chicago. But the plan criticized the Ford administration's deficit budgets.

He said he expects intense criticism of his proposal, which could be the first major plank in his potential campaign.

"We must turn a deaf ear to the screams of the outraged if this nation and this way of life are to survive. The simple fact is the producing class in this nation is being drained of its substance by the non-producers. The taxpayers are being victimized by the tax consumers," he said.

Other elements of the economic proposal include:

- Elimination of all federal "price fixing."
- Restricting borrowing by semi-independent federal agencies.
- Limiting the growth of the money supply to match the gain in productivity.

Ford warning to Congress as he approves oil controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he will sign a bill reinstating oil price controls until Nov. 15, but he issued a warning to Congress that this extension will be the last.

The House and Senate gave final approval Friday to an agreement with Ford for re-establishing controls while efforts continue to reach a compromise on a national energy policy.

Controls on most U.S.-produced oil expired Sept. 1. The new bill reinstates the controls retroactive to that date. When controls finally expire, petroleum product prices will increase.

In other energy developments on Friday:

—The 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), meeting in Vienna, was reported near agreement today on a compromise proposal to raise oil prices 10 per cent on Oct. 1.

—A Getty Oil Co. report was made public showing the firm privately predicts that natural gas prices will increase more than 300 per cent if price controls are removed.

—The Interior Department said it will no longer allow major oil companies to pool their resources to bid for offshore petroleum leases.

—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana (Amoco) and Standard Oil Co. of California (Chevron) filed suit challenging the federal government's right to collect oil import fees for July and August.

The bill temporarily reinstating oil price controls breezed through the House on a 342-16 vote and through the Senate by a 75-5 margin. A short time later, Ford spokesman Ron Nessen indicated the President was prepared to sign the measure.

Congress has leaned toward phasing out controls over a longer period, and many lawmakers support a ceiling on oil prices and some price roll-backs.

Conferees of the House and Senate may begin discussions as early as next week as they attempt to iron out their differences on separate energy bills they have approved. Ford, who has indicated he would accept neither measure, has said he would be willing to meet with them.

But some conferees expressed concern over whether such a meeting would violate the constitutional separation of powers of government.

"We'd like to have any input from the President, but we're not going to let him sit in on the conference," said Commerce Committee Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W.Va.

But an aide to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said it might be possible for the conferees to meet with Ford before their work session.

Outrageous, says Zarb

OPEC decides on 10% oil price boost

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A Venezuelan official said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided today to raise the price of oil 10 per cent as of Oct. 1 and then freeze the price for nine months. America's top energy official called the move "outrageous."

Venezuela's chief delegate, Valentin Hernandez Acosta, said the hike would put the price of oil at $11.51 a barrel, up from the current $10.46. This means American motorists would pay roughly a penny more for a gallon of gasoline starting Oct. 1 if the hike is passed on to them directly.

Hernandez Acosta said he was taking a lunch break before returning to discuss other issues on the agenda in an afternoon session scheduled to last for around four hours. The final communiqué, officially announcing the new price hike, was not expected to be announced until then.

In Washington, Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, who called the reported hike "outrageous," also criticized Congress for failing to enact a national energy policy to reduce U.S. dependency on foreign oil. The United States imports about 38 per cent of its oil.

"I'm not sure whether it's the OPEC price increase or the congressional price increase," Zarb told White House newsmen.

Agreement on a price boost came after Saudi Arabia and an Iranian-led faction reconciled their differences. The Saudis had been trying to keep the hike down, the Iranian faction wanted the boost to be higher.

"It's all over gentlemen, they have reached an agreement," Mana Saeed al-Otaiba, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates said.

Prior to this morning's meeting, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, who had opposed a price increase of more than 5 per cent, had said he was "very hopeful" that agreement would be reached.

Nigeria's Mofia Tonjo Akobo said "everything seems certain."

Delegates to the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries conference said nations which had backed Iran's demand for a 15 per cent increase had indicated increasing flexibility.

The compromise appeared close to Yamani's latest proposal for separate 5 per cent increases Oct. 1 and Jan. 1, followed by a price freeze for a year or more.

Saudi Arabia originally sought to extend the price freeze at $10.46 for a 42-gallon barrel of Arabian light oil, the standard OPEC unit. Other cartel members called for price hikes of from 10 to 35 per cent.

A 10 per cent increase would result in American gasoline price hikes of about a penny a gallon. That is assuming the United States continues to import about 38 per cent of its oil and refined products; the OPEC price increase is passed on to customers uniformly on all products; and there are no other changes in oil price that might increase or decrease the effect.

A flat 10 per cent price increase would add an estimated $15 billion to the non-Communist world's oil bill over the next 15 months.

That figure was close to the estimated $13.8 billion in Saudi Arabia's official negotiating position Friday and was much less than the additional $22.5 billion a 15 per cent boost would have cost.

Yamani spelled out his position in unusual detail before Friday evening's session that came seven hours after his return from London, where he had held long-distance consultations with his government.

Yamani had held out earlier for a single 5 per cent increase Oct. 1. But he confirmed Friday that he had been authorized all along to settle for another "nominal" 5 per cent hike Jan. 1, followed by a long price freeze.

Iranian oil minister Jamshid Amouzegar said his nation will put 10 cents from revenues received for each barrel of oil into a new fund for developing countries.

The fund is designed to ease the burden of oil price hikes on poorer Third World nations, who face a combined $36 billion deficit this year.

Hope new ballistics tests will solve RFK questions

LOS ANGELES — Seven experts on criminal evidence hope comparisons of test bullets with the slugs recovered from the body of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will help settle the question of whether more than one gun was used in his assassination.

The gun used by Sirhan Sirhan in the 1968 assassination was fired again Friday by a firearms expert. Four rounds were fired from the .22-caliber Iver Johnson Cadet revolver into a six-foot tank of water.

The markings on the bullets will be examined under a special microscope and compared with those taken from Kennedy's body.

Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke signed an order Friday authorizing refiring of the pistol at the request of the panel of experts "to enable them to complete the classical microscopic comparison test."

The "second gun" controversy centers around photographs taken by Pasadena criminologist William W. Harper in late 1970.

Forensic expert DeWayne Wolfer testified that a bullet taken from the base of Kennedy's neck and bullets taken from two persons wounded in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel where Kennedy was shot were from Sirhan's gun and "no other gun in the world."

But Harper said his examination of the bullets from Kennedy and one of the persons wounded led him to believe they had not been fired from the same gun.

Lowell W. Bradford, one of the seven experts, said the test bullets were "nicely marked."

Sirhan is serving a life sentence in San Quentin prison. Because there had been some doubt as to whether refiring of the gun would be necessary, Friday's test shooting was interpreted by some as an inference the experts were dissatisfied with results of tests on the death bullets.

The district attorney's special counsel in the inquiry, Thomas F. Kranz, said the apparent lack of reports in 1968 by Wolfer, now head of the police crime lab, "raised doubts as to the substance of the evidence in the case."

The inquiry was opened after Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., and Paul Schrader, one of those wounded, filed a series of legal actions seeking to open the files on the 1968 investigation.

CBS maintained in its suit seeking to reopen the investigation that California's Public Records Act provides that "public records are open to inspection at all times during the office hours of the state or local agency and every citizen has a right to inspect any public record ..."

The network had been rebuffed last July when it asked to inspect the 10-volume police summary of evidence in the Kennedy assassination.

The Los Angeles Police Commission contended that releasing police evidence in the case could invade the privacy of innocent persons.

Meanwhile in Memphis, Tenn., CBS was denied access to ballistics evidence in the James Earl Ray case in a ruling Friday by Criminal Court Judge William H. Williams.

Rockford psychiatrist says:

Lower should be removed from society

GALENA, Ill. (AP) — A Rockford psychiatrist has testified in Circuit Court that the accused slayer of a 15-year-old newspaper carrier is a "seriously ill and dangerous person who should be removed from society."

Dr. John G. Graybill, first witness for the defense, said Friday that Robert H. Lower, 37, a Rockford truck driver, suffered from a severe mental disease which prevented him from "conforming his behavior to that required by the law."

The defense is attempting to prove that Lower is innocent of murdering young Joseph Didier by reason of insanity.

The murder trial, in its second day, was recessed by Judge James B. Vincent, following Friday's testimony. The case will resume Monday with Grayson expected to be recalled to the witness stand for further cross-examination.

Didier, the son of Rockford alderman George Didier, disappeared March 4 while delivering papers on his newspaper route. His nude frozen body was recovered 11 days later in a Boys Scout camp near Stockton. Six days later, Lower was arrested and charged with the slaying.

Graybill testified that Lower had an "intense need for a satisfying relationship with someone, although it may be perverted or bizarre." Lower had a history of being a loner and never had a satisfying relationship with adult individuals, Grayson said.

The Rockford psychiatrist examined Lower in 1965 and 1966 following the accused slayer's arrest in Freeport for molesting an 11-year-old boy. During a 1966 court hearing, Graybill recommended that Lower, who had been sent to Menard State Prison as a sexually dangerous person, not be released.

Graybill said Lower has a past history of bizarre behavior and that by the very nature of his illness, Lower was unable to control his behavior, despite having full knowledge of the criminality of young Didier's slaying.

Lower has a "strange behavior with strange interests," the psychiatrist said, adding that the accused slayer is "blinded by his needs."

Under cross-examination by Jo Davies County State's Atty. Victor Sprengelmeyer, Graybill testified that Lower does not have some of the classic symptoms of schizophrenia, such as delusions or hallucinations.

Lower's actions, Graybill said, were deliberate. "He did it (the slaying) knowing full well, I'm sure, it was wrong," Graybill said.

Testimony is expected to be concluded late Monday.

Answer to Trulock charges is filed

The motions, filed Friday in Circuit Clerk Harold Huffman's office, are in answer to the petition for injunction filed Aug. 28 by the law firm of Dixon,

Self-defense mutual

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)— There are heroes in evil as well as in good, as the French moralist La Rochefoucauld was fond of reminding, thus an America groping for some hope in the aftermath of assassination attempts need look no further than an ex-Marine named Oliver Sipple.

He is the good citizen who was credited in San Francisco with having lunged at the would-be killer of Gerald Ford to prevent further gun-play and possibly its success.

Actually, what Sipple did should not be considered heroic so much as obligatory. It is, after all, the duty of each in society to police the good of the whole. Yet at a time when the conscience of many Americans seems to be in a comatose state, when people increasingly are responsible only to themselves, Oliver Sipple is a meddler of unfortunate rarity. And so not only a hero but perhaps also an object lesson for those who wish for better times in the nation.

It is not by accident that the country has arrived at a time when not even its President is safe on its streets. The clear truth is, as numberless officials and academics are slowly beginning to confess, the thugs are winning the war on crime because they outnumber the forces marshaled against them. Attorney Gen. Edward Levi recently put the blame for growing crime squarely where it belongs, in the apathetic lap of the public. The law is not enough, Levi said, public attitude being the ultimate anticrime weapon.

"We have a country which is very tolerant and has been willing to take a degree of lawlessness. The main problem (with crime) is the willingness of the public to accept (crime), because if we are not willing to accept it law enforcement would be much better. I suppose one has to say that what we have to do is change the attitude of the public toward this kind of tolerance of crime."

There are, to be sure, some good reasons why the public attitude has waned. For one thing, government hardly encourages participation by its private citizens in matters of public defense. Domestic tranquility is the province of police forces and outside interference is not appreciated. One recalls illustratively the many news accounts of rape and robbery victims who, after defending themselves violently, have been arrested for the use of concealed arms.

Beyond this, naturally, there is the necessary revulsion against vigilantism. One Oliver Sipple can be condoned, even honored, but a dozen of his type raise serious questions of propriety. The Ku Klux Klan, after all, is merely an organization of Americans who feel they are doing the right thing, the right thing having occasionally resulted in black men hanging dead from tree limbs.

Yet if the public has forfeited its right to public defense for good reason, some kind of reexamination of the consequences may be merited. "It is a wise maxim," as revolutionist John Weatherspoon wrote, "to avoid those things which our enemies wish us to practice." There can be no doubt that the natural enemies of a stable nation—thugs, outlaws and assassins—wish hard that Americans will continue to witness the streets as noninvolved bystanders.

Better the community be less myopic. It is one thing to be overcome by lions, as someone has said, quite another to be devoured by rats. A shot at the President, like a mugging of a man in the park, is a crime against all of us. The only defense, therefore, is a common defense. Enter Oliver Sipple as the for instance; if one private man can help save a President, many of his kind, advised and encouraged to become involved, may help save others as well.

There is an ethic which needs desperately to be seeded in the nation: that we are all cops in our mutual protection. No one should be satisfied if Gerald Ford artificially reduces the assassination crime rate by staying away from the people, isolationism in this case being another word for capitulation. Instead, as a cop in San Francisco was quoted as saying, "Some day people are going to get tired of this kind of crap." The question is when?

Low cost of more security

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— A friend in the electronic business, who does considerable work for the government, says that about $15,000 to $20,000 worth of development should produce a pocket-sized ferrous metal detector which Secret Service agents could carry unobtrusively.

Moving slightly ahead of President Ford, they could circulate along his path and ferret out handguns and other suspicious objects, using the same ear attachments as with the receivers they now carry.

The original gadgets—crash developed from current knowledge, and made largely from on-the-shelf parts, would likely have a range of around two to three feet. With a little additional research, my friend thinks, the range of these detectors could be doubled and tripled.

Conveniently small devices that could sense out suspicious objects at somewhat longer distances, are theoretically quite possible.

These sensors would not have detected a Lee Harvey Oswald, in the window of a building some distance off. But they would likely have called attention to a Sara Jane Moore or a Lynette Alice Fromme in a crowd along the path of Mr. Ford.

The first simple detection devices, after the initial $15,000 to $20,000 developmental investment, would likely cost no more than $1,000 each.

These measures would not, of course, be foolproof. But talks with specialists in the field convince me there is no other practical method to provide protection for a President.

The difficulties become understandable when one looks into the characteristics of current and past presidential assassins and would-be assassins.

I have talked at length with doctors studying these demented people. Invariably they are strange, impulsive loners, living in worlds of their own, secretive and with a tendency to self-dramatization. Their minds drift from one enemy to the next, they're born losers, do not stick to one job for long, and are intensely involved with the belief of the moment.

Only rarely do they represent any group. A fraction maintain personal loyalties. They are usually, infatuated ed with the thought of a supreme, dramatic public spectacle with themselves at the center.

It is impossible to screen all nuts for arms, to tail all "strange" people in and out of crowds gathering around the President—or give tickets of admission only to a selected few.

We can't force all unbalanced people to carry little electronic beepers to enable the police, the FBI and the Secret Service to locate them easily in any crowd.

We can't call out the Army and the Reserves to police bystanders in a massive protective sweep.

We can't circulate the pictures of all the unbalanced people in any community during a presidential visit in order to alert the citizenry. And we can't lock up everyone who conceivably might be a threat.

Yet the unbalanced people we are talking about are walking bombs, ready to go off.

We can take a clue from our relative success in preventing aircraft hijacking of late. The screening of all passengers as they board has had dramatic effects.

St. Elizabeth's fourth miracle

NEW YORK (LENS)— America's 40 million Roman Catholics finally have their own saint. Elizabeth Seton, convert from protestantism, wife of a wealthy Wall Street merchant and founder of an order of nuns in Maryland, where her tomb is now a place of pilgrimage, died in 1821.

Recently she was canonized by the Pope in St. Peter's Square. It was the culmination of a campaign that had lasted nearly a century.

In the last two years Saint Elizabeth Seton has had a full-time public relations professional, a campaign budget of over $100,000 and the prayers of 12,000 nuns working for her.

An ecclesiastical court spent 17 years mulling over some 3,000 documents on her before Pope Pius XII declared her "venerable" in 1940. Then came the search for miracles performed through her divine intercession; two of these were duly authenticated before Pope John XXIII beatified her in 1963. The Vatican, which has sanctified only 250 people since 1625, then showed an unusual turn of speed in response to American pressure.

By 1972 Elizabeth Seton's body had been exhumed and some of her bones distributed as relics; a further miracle was proved. But the process might well have taken longer had not the Pope, in a rare permissive move, waived the need for proof of a fourth miracle that is usually required.

The Vatican's sense of timing was astute. The canonization of Elizabeth Seton has given a boost to the morale of many American Catholics (in the 1920s the Vatican canonized St. Joan of Arc, who had been previously thought of as a heretic, to give a similar encouragement to the French church). America has now become one of the most powerful forces within the church of Rome, and six American cardinals were at the service in St. Peter's.

The canonization also fits neatly into the Vatican's recognition of International Woman's Year; indeed nuns participated in the service with a greater involvement than ever previously permitted to women. Elizabeth Seton is portrayed by the church as an independent, almost revolutionary, woman and the order she founded, the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph, lives up to that image, wearing modern clothes and working in social welfare programs.

If the Vatican has pleased the women's movement within the ranks of the American Catholic Church by this canonization, it will have pulled off something of a diplomatic coup.

The Episcopalians, though more progressive in allowing women to participate in religious services, have become increasingly split on this issue. Last week four more women were ordained as Episcopal priests, strictly against a ruling of the church's bishops, bringing to 15 the number so far ordained without authority. This open revolt has caused great embarrassment to the church's hierarchy which is to meet in a general convention next year to discuss the issue.

Although the overwhelming majority of American Episcopal bishops favor women holding the priesthood and are likely to permit it next year, the open dispute has caused a more serious problem by undermining the church's authority. The deft move from Rome may have prevented such an outbreak of dissidence among America's Catholics: Elizabeth Seton's fourth miracle perhaps?

By DON OAKLEY

You can lead kids of different racial or ethnic backgrounds to the same school but you can't make them drink of the cup of fellowship.

That of course, is not the purpose of presently strenuous—and controversial—busing efforts. But if anyone hopes that a greater respect of students for each other, if not friendship, will result from integration, recent research does not support that hope.

According to Dr. Robert J. Wuthnow, assistant professor of sociology at the University of Arizona, a study of 4,500 high school students in three eastern communities suggests that prejudiced attitudes are actually more prevalent in schools with a greater ethnic mix than in those with virtually no minority group members.

The results of the study have been published in a new book, "Adolescent Prejudice," co-authored by Wuthnow and three other researchers.

"Instead of backing up the current belief that prejudice is lessened if there are minorities present in a school to get to know, we found that just the opposite was the case," says Wuthnow.

Because it was funded by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the study focused primarily on anti-Semitism, but its findings would seem to be universally applicable.

The proportion of Jewish students was 50 per cent in one school, 25 per cent in the second and none in the third, while about 15 per cent of each school's enrollment were black children.

Gentile students in the school with the highest Jewish enrollment were most inclined to demonstrate jealousy about Jews' academic successfulness and to hold stereotyped ideas about Jews.

Evidence was found that by the city authorities for the purpose of guarding the young children to and from school.

22,551,375 tons of water had fallen on each acre of land in Dixon and vicinity up until last night. That was the almost unbelievable weight of the water which had fallen here since the first of the year.

throughout the high school years, both majority and minority parents put increasing pressure on their children to date within their own groups. Similarly, the students' listings of their closest friends showed few cross-cultural associations.

In each of the schools, however, it was the better students—"those more intellectually advanced"—who expressed a better understanding of the roots of prejudice.

"If we are to overcome prejudice," says Wuthnow, "our pitch to the schools should be more than physical integration, because the kids just don't seem to get along very well."

The key, he says, seems to be in explaining why there are cultural differences. We can't deny that there are differences, so schools should teach the social and historical reasons for the differences.

Sipple considering legal action

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ex-Marine Oliver Sipple saw the gun pulled out of the purse and pointed at the President. He knocked it away.

Now, he says his mother tells him she is afraid to even step out of her house because all the neighbors are talking about published reports that her son is a homosexual.

"This is his reward for saving the President's life," said lawyer John Wahl, who has represented gay groups in court.

"We are very seriously considering action against news media which have carried the stories which destroyed 32 years of family life enjoyed with his mother and father and other personal relationships with friends," Wahl said.

Sipple appeared at a news conference Thursday with Wahl and with the Rev. John Barbone, pastor of a gay church.

He told reporters that he had spoken with his mother in Detroit and the conversation had ended with her hanging up on him.

However, in Detroit, Ethel Sipple told newsmen, "I'm a very fortunate mother to have a son like Oliver. We're all very proud of him."

Mrs. Sipple, 65, said she spoke to her son for an hour on the phone Wednesday.

"When he was fighting in Vietnam, there were many times when I thought he would never return alive," Mrs. Sipple said of her son. "But he came back and probably saved the life of the President of the United States."

Sipple's personal life became an object of attention after a local columnist, Herb Caen, wrote a column strongly implying the Vietnam veteran was gay and noting that he had not yet been thanked by the White House.

Ron Nessen, White House Press Secretary, said Thursday that the President intended to thank everyone who helped during the assassination attempt. Sipple said the news was "terrific."

"Hey, that's great. That's beautiful," he said. "I knew he'd come through. He's just been busy. Wow, it's incredible."

You do something in a minute and the whole nation's looking at you."

Several hours later, his eyes red and his voice shaking, he stood before the television cameras and read from a handwritten statement:

"My sexuality is part of my private life and has no bearing on my response to the act of a person seeking to take the life of another."

"My sexual orientation has nothing at all to do with saving the President's life, just as the color of my eyes or my race has nothing to do with what happened in front of the St. Francis Hotel."

Authorities credit the burly Sipple with knocking the arm of Sara Jane Moore, accused of firing a shot at the President as he emerged from the hotel Monday. The shot went wild and Ford was unhurt.

"Why did I do it? It was a gun pointed at the President of the United States, that's why," he said a few hours after the incident.

Leaders in the gay community were split between sympathy for a man they said was dragged into a harsh spotlight and anger at a man some said is hurting the gay rights movement with his reticence.

Ford ducks

President Ford ducks behind his limousine and is hustled into the vehicle by Secret Service agents after a shot was fired as he left the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. The President was unhurt and a woman was taken into custody. (AP Wirephoto)

Knudson-Pavesich unite in marriage

Miss Catherine Ann Knudson and Andrew J. Pavesich Jr. were united in marriage Sept. 20 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Knudson, Dixon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Pavesich Sr., Dixon.

Performing the double-ring nuptial was the Rev. David D. Kagan, of St. Patrick's, and the Rev. William Carpenter, St. Luke's Episcopal, Dixon. Accompanying the vocalist, Mrs. Robert G. Wurtz, Dixon, was Crawford Thomas at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candelite satin-faced peau designed with a V-neckline, bishop sleeves, a full, gathered skirt with chapel-length train, and trimmed with Alencon lace and pearls. A Juliet cap of Chantilly lace and seed pearls secured her veil and, along with her great-grandmother's handkerchief, she carried a bouquet of cornhusk roses, preserved leather leaf, and baby's breath. Pearl earrings, were her gift from the groom.

Serving as her sister's maid of honor was Miss Carolyn Knudson, who was attired in an ivory gown of polyester sheer. She wore a matching ivory straw hat with rust ribbon and carried a colonial bouquet of ivory straw flowers, baby's breath and Spanish dried flowers tied with ivory ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Melody Bruce, Miss Rhonda Rendleman, Miss Debbie Baker, Dixon, and Mrs. Beckworth Walls III, Darlington, Wis. They wore gowns of rust and ivory in polyester sheer, and rust straw hats with ivory ribbons. Their colonial bouquets were rust straw flowers, baby's breath and Spanish dried flowers tied with trailing ivory ribbons.

Each of the attendants wore a rust velvet choker with cameo, their gifts from the bride.

Serving as best man was Randy Spencer, Dixon. Ron Pfeiffer, Gary Merriman, Charles Pavesich and Don Emmert, Dixon, were the groomsmen. Michael Pavesich and Jim Knudson, Dixon, seated the guests.

The reception followed the ceremony at noon in the Post House. Assisting were Mrs. Charles Pavesich, Miss Robin McBride, Mrs. Ron Pfeiffer, Mrs. Randy Spencer and Miss Vicky Hughes.

Following their wedding trip to Wisconsin, the couple will reside in Woosung.

The new Mrs. Pavesich is employed by the Dixon Developmental Center and Mr. Pavesich is currently employed by Commonwealth Edison, Dixon.

Mrs. Pavesich was honored at three showers given by Mrs. Charles Pridmore, Mrs. Mary Jo Edge and Mrs. Linda Ream, and Miss Debbie Baker.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW PAVESICH

Should hubby take wife back if she shows up?

Dear Ann Landers: When I married my wife she was 17. I was 18. Neither one of us was dry behind the ears but of course nobody could tell us anything. We knew it all.

Our son was born ten months later. The child is five years old now. Six months ago my wife decided she made a mistake by marrying so young. She packed her bags and sneaked out in the middle of the night.

My mother takes care of the boy and he seems to be getting along fine. I have no feeling for my wife one way or another. But I can't understand how a normal mother could leave her only child.

If my wife should decide one of these days that she made a big mistake and would like to come back, should I take her? What is your opinion? — Dumped in Dubuque

Dear Dumped: Wait and see. If she comes back, write again.

You'll have a lot more information than you have now — and so will she.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a senior in high school who has always enjoyed participating in athletic events. But I have a beef I'd like to air in your column.

Three coaches in our school act like high school sports are a business. If the team doesn't win, they chew out the players and make us feel as if we have let everyone down.

If a person is in sports for a living, I can see why winning might be a big deal, but why should high school competition be THAT important?

I enjoy sports, but I consider it healthy exercise, good competition and fun. I hate all the unbearable heat put on the players to win.

Please, Ann, tell the athletic directors that many guys like myself have been turned off by their attitude. I have participated in tournaments and meets outside of school and I've never felt the terrific pressure to win until I played on a high school team. Just sign me — A. N. Y. Griper

Dear Griper: Of course you are right, but the coach who turns out winning teams gets support and praise from the alumni, the community and the press. He also enjoys victory dinners, plaques, and silver cups for the showcase. Often it means a salary increase.

It's unfair to hassle and put down a losing team that happens to be outclassed. I agree such coaches should be chopped down to size. But inherent in the American ethic is the importance of being a winner and I see nothing that suggests it's going to change.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old boy and my chick is 16.

I have been wanting to raise a beard and moustache for two years but haven't had much luck. Some guys are hairier than others and I'm not one who can grow much of a crop.

These last few months my beard has been getting heavier and I decided to give it a go. Well, Shirley blew her cool. She said if I didn't shave she wouldn't let me kiss her. She claims my beard scratches her face and give her pimples.

This moustache and beard mean a lot to me as a sign of manhood and I'm not about to give it up. Yet I'm ape over Shirley. YOU are going to decide. — Machismo In Danger

Dear Machismo: No, I'm not. It's YOUR machismo, YOUR Shirley and you're going to decide which means more to your life.

When cooking for only yourself — and perhaps one other person — don't slip into the habit of eating skimpy, monotonous meals. With planning and careful shopping, you can prepare a variety of appealing low-cost meals containing the nutrients your body needs every day.

Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist, has these suggestions for small-scale shopping, adding variety to your diet and for cutting the amount of leftovers.

—Buy only the food you can use within a reasonable length of time. The large package, even though you may get more for your money, is no bargain if the food becomes stale or spoiled before you can eat all of it. Likewise, pick the small-size cans of fruits, vegetables, and seafood. Single-serving cans may cost more per serving, but they do eliminate having to eat the same food several days in a row or discarding food unnecessarily.

—The larger packages of loose frozen vegetables, however, may be the best choice because you can pour out just what you'll eat for one meal, keeping the rest frozen.

—Dry milk is inexpensive, requires little storage, and can be used in cooking and for drinking. Ms. Downey continues. If carrying groceries home is a problem, a package of dry milk is much easier to carry than cartons of fresh milk.

—Dried fruits, vegetables, soups and mixes may be better choices for you than fresh ones. They are easy to use, you can prepare only the amount you want, and the remainder will keep until you need it.

—TV dinners, individual meat pies and frozen entrees are simple-to-fix meals on days when you are not feeling well. This convenience purchased at the grocery store is less costly than hiring someone to prepare food in the home.

—When buying meats, remember this guide: (1) one pound of poultry or meat with a lot of gristle or bone equals one to two servings; (2) one pound of fish fillets or meat with some bone equals three servings; (3) one pound of boneless meat equals four to five servings.

—Buy the larger roast or whole chicken, then simply cut it into smaller pieces, Ms. Downey suggests. Use part, then freeze remainder in meal-size packages.

—Prepare your own "meals in a freezer" by cooking enough food for four and freezing the extra portions to use later.

—Use a variety of cooking methods to keep meals from getting monotonous. Cook the meal in a skillet or pot, in the oven, or in the broiler.

—If a dry mix makes six servings and you want just two, prepare only one-third of the package. To divide a mix, stir the mix and measure it, then divide into equal portions. Don't forget to reduce the ingredients you add to the mix proportionately. And finally, mark the package to show how many servings are left.

—Plan ahead and use shortcuts, Ms. Downey concludes. For example, use part of a can of soup as a sauce. The remainder can be served as soup the next day.

Women alcoholics are hidden

The development of alcoholism in a woman is often compounded by the tendency of those closest to her to weave a protective circle of silence around her drinking in an effort to "protect" her from public attention. This, in turn, encourages continued alcoholic drinking, perpetuating the cycle.

The mechanism of "protecting" drinkers works differently for women than for men.

"When men drink excessively, they often get into trouble on the job or with the law," notes Marty Mann, founder of the National Council on Alcoholism. "When a woman drinks excessively, it may be years before anyone outside her immediate family realizes she is an alcoholic. When her husband, relatives or friends discover that she has a drinking problem, they often try to protect her instead of encouraging her to seek help."

A principal factor in the tendency to conceal women's drinking problems has been the moral stigma surrounding alcoholism. It has long been considered "unladylike" for a woman to be drunk or even to drink in public; so, from fear of being disgraced, most alcoholic women have been used to drinking secretly and, in many cases, alone. Dr. Chafetz says that "it is very likely that greater condemnation, fear of being a social outcast, and feelings of guilt contribute both to the concealment of drinking and its telescoped development in women."

The concealment of women's drinking has long misled researchers on the true dimensions of alcoholism among women. It has only been in recent years that changing social attitudes toward women have spurred efforts to research the problem more thoroughly.

Just as there is no typical alcoholic man, there is no typical alcoholic woman, although the secretly imbibing middleclass housewife has been singled out so often in movies, short stories, articles, and the literature that she has perhaps assumed the role of the prototype alcoholic woman in the minds of the public. Her group is probably the most numerous in the alcoholic female population. Although this group is deserving of all the help it can get, Dr. Chafetz says, its problems must not be permitted to obscure the needs of other classes of alcoholic women, such as professional and other working women and the often overlooked skid-row women.

Las Vegas wedding

POLO — Miss Inga Kristina Kinmon and Dale Thomas Cady were recently united in marriage in Las Vegas, Nev. with Curris M. Egglers officiating at the morning ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kinmon, Polo, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Cady, Valley, Neb.

The couple honeymooned in Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif.

Since their return, they have been residing in Polo. The new Mrs. Cady is employed at Kable News, Mt. Morris, and Mr. Cady is a truck driver for Illinois-California Express.

Mrs. Cady graduated from Polo High School in 1970. Mr. Cady graduated from Valley High School, Valley, Neb., and has served in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Sound play saves unsound bid

By Oswald and James Jacoby North and South were playing sound preemptive bids. At least North thought they were. He assumed that South would have a side ace for his three-diamond opening, whereupon he could count on 10 tricks at notrump.

Of course, if South did hold an ace, a double of four spades was clearly indicated, but North didn't think of that. He wanted the game.

South wanted no part of four notrump and ran to five diamonds. He anticipated a double of four notrump, but that didn't keep West from doubling the diamond contract.

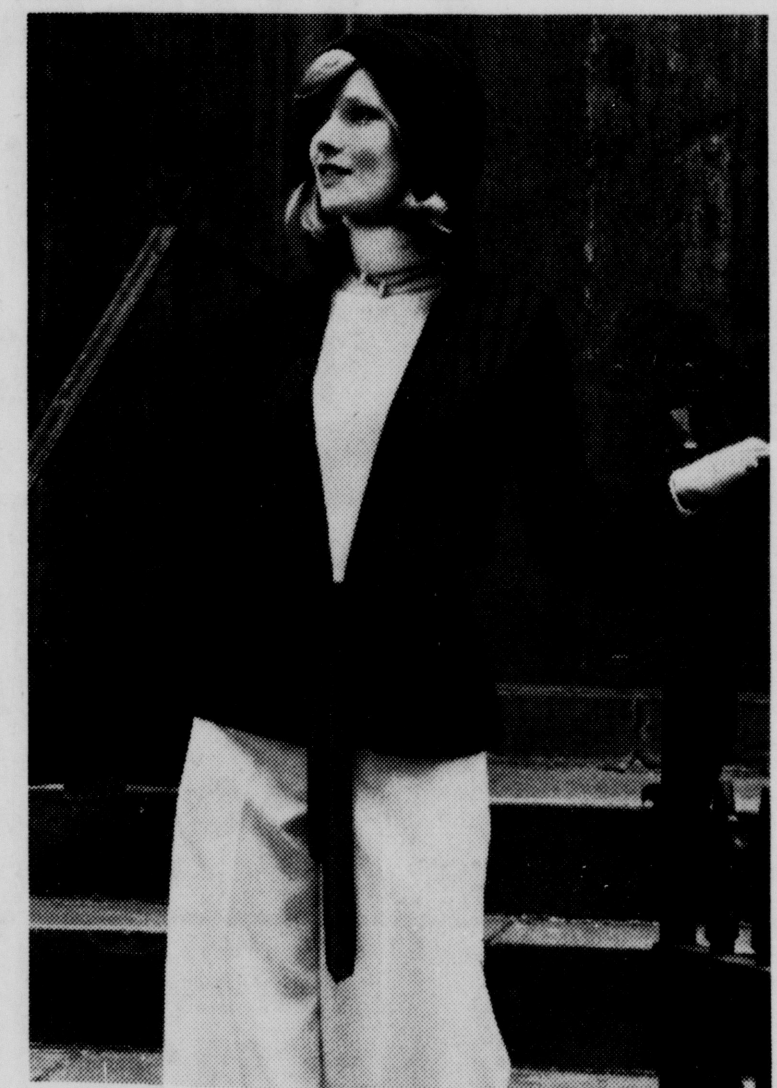

West's hand clearly called for a trump lead, but he opened the ace of spades which gave South all he needed to bring the hand home.

South used a rather standard play. He ruffed the spade, led a trump to dummy's ace and a second one back to his 10. Then he led the nine of hearts. If West ducked, South would win in dummy, discard his other heart on the king of spades and lose two club tricks.

Actually West took his ace of hearts and led a low club. South paused to consider possibilities,

Atlanta mayor moves to include blacks in projects

ATLANTA (AP) — This city's black, first-term mayor has angered white politicians and delayed a major airport expansion project with his unwilling demand that black companies participate in the $400 million contract.

It's part of Mayor Maynard Jackson's demand that black-owned construction companies be included in government construction contracts.

"I think the time has come to stop pussyfooting around," said Jackson, 37, first black mayor of this Southern capital city. "Either government ought to shut up talking a good game or government ought to do something about it."

To back up his demand on the airport contract, Jackson says he is drafting an ordinance that will guarantee black businessmen a share of every city contract.

His approach appears to be more direct and forceful than that of other black mayors in major American cities. Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has pushed a program to make black firms aware of upcoming city contracts, and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young has insisted on a quota of minority employees for firms bidding on city work. Similar efforts have been made in Gary, Ind. by Richard Hatcher.

Jackson, however, moved swiftly and directly this year to reopen architectural and engineering contracts for the airport expansion and insisted that the contract holders recruit black-owned firms to do 20 to 25 per cent of the work.

After 11 weeks of negotiations, the existing contractor, Atlanta Airport Engineering Inc., recruited a black-owned New York firm to share in the engineering contract. And two architectural firms agreed to take in four black-owned firms on a joint venture basis.

"It's an idea whose time has come," Jackson said of the joint ventures. "It is the next logical step in the equal employment opportunity sphere."

He said that resistance to the idea comes from people who believe "rather accurately, that if this catches on and spreads nationally, blacks will achieve a level of economic power unparalleled in the history of the country."

"The irony of the resistance to the idea is that the resistance is often by people who criticize blacks for not being resourceful. Now, here's a chance for blacks not to get a giveaway."

A black voter majority and a strong relationship with a biracial city council make it possible for Jackson to make such a stubborn stand, said state Sen. Julian Bond, a Jackson supporter who briefly sought support for a presidential bid this year.

"Most black mayors do not have the same kind of good relationship with the city council that Jackson has," said Bond who is black. "Although they may want to do the same thing, political realities keep them from that. This along with the black political majority is the major reason for Jackson's strong position."

Jackson collected nearly 60 per cent of the votes two years ago to defeat incumbent Mayor Sam Massell. At that time blacks made up just slightly less than half the registered voters. Today, black voters comprise 51.4 per cent of the voters.

So far, Jackson has not taken a strong position on an annexation controversy, an issue that concerns the black political majority. While annexation of predominantly white suburban areas would increase the city's tax base, it also would dilute black voting strength.

Firms in Georgia for many years have used joint ventures to handle large government jobs. But, he said, he opposes city contracts being awarded solely on the basis of race.

bidder or people who might render service to the city by imposing on them a partnership they don't want or need," said Lambros, one of four council members to vote against including minority firms in the airport contracts.

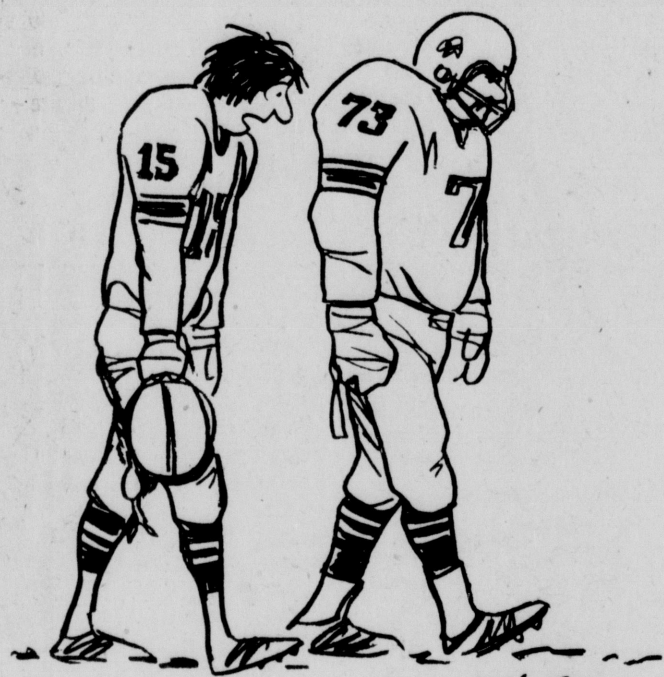

Another council opponent, George Cotsakis, who like Lambros is white, said he thinks an alternative is to have a "good administrator" privately tell the low bidder the city would like to see minorities included in the job.

Cotsakis said he doesn't like the idea of mandating black participation.

And the current procedure with its emphasis on race, he said, is "building up a lot of rednecks and people who don't want to be rednecks."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-678: Billy Hirschman, aged six, is the son of a famous Florida heart specialist.

Recently, Billy went to visit his teen-age sister, who was a cancer patient at Boston.

Billy was a sports fan, so he attended an exciting contest involving the Boston Bruins.

For a time, it looked as if the Bruins would lose and this disturbed Billy.

"Please, God," he muttered as his grandparents overheard his frantic prayer, "Make 'em strong and fast."

The contest seesawed dramatically but finally the Bruins won by a single goal.

Billy was in ecstasy but he didn't forget his debt to the Almighty.

"Thanks, God," he fervently whispered, "you really are a good guy!"

Many devout religionists might regard Billy's casual conversation with God, as irreverent and almost sacrilegious.

That would be more true of people lacking a sense of humor and without broad experience with youngsters.

But Billy was not being flippant or irreverent at all!

He had been reared in a religious home where Sunday School and the saying of grace before meals, were part of his upbringing.

Like millions of other young children, he talked to God as a friend, so Billy's prayer was merely conversation with an invisible Ally.

And if more families would rear their kiddies with this respect and love for Deity, there'd be less delinquency, school dropouts and sexual assaults on defenseless girls and women!

"Dr. Crane," a pastor's wife recently added, "I wish you'd also urge program chairmen of various organizations, clubs and business conventions to stop listing a 'Cash Bar' or a 'Cocktail Hour' ahead of their scheduled luncheons and banquets."

"Since 65 per cent of Americans don't smoke and at least 50 per cent don't like to stand around inhaling liquor fumes before a dinner, why not stress a 'Fellowship Hour' instead of a 'Cocktail Hour'?"

"Nowadays, many members of an organization don't show up at all for the preliminary social mingling and visiting, for they resent the sheeplike behavior of people who stam-pede to drink cocktails."

"So they remain away till just a few minutes before the dinner is to be served."

"Yet much is lost by such organizations by failing to promote true pre-dinner fellowship and sparkling conversation."

"Are the program chairmen so greedy of making a little extra profit via their 'Cash Bar'?"

Walker signs bill to open school records

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislation giving public school students and their parents new rights to inspect and challenge school records has been signed into law by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The legislation signed Friday also requires a parent's consent before a student's records can be released outside the school system.

The bill was one of several which Walker acted on Friday, and his office said afterwards that action had been completed on the more than 1,400 bills sent to the governor last spring by the General Assembly.

The governor amended a bill to protect against unwarranted eavesdropping by requiring a court order to secretly record a telephone conversation.

Currently, a conversation may be recorded with the permission of one party to it and the approval of the state's attorney. Walker said he felt that gave the state's attorney too much discretion.

But he amended the bill to allow recording of conversations in emergency situations where there isn't time to obtain a court order. He said the court would have to approve of the recordings after the incident, however, before the tapes could be introduced as evidence.

The General Assembly, which meets Oct. 22 for a session to consider the governor's veto actions, was asked to approve the amendment.

Walker said he signed a bill to facilitate statewide use of an emergency telephone number—911—to reach police, firemen and ambulance services.

The system is now used in 15 Illinois communities and will start in Peoria Dec. 30, in Aurora early next year, in Chicago late next year and in the entire state by 1985.

The governor removed from another bill a section which would have allowed the Democratic or Republican parties to select all presidential convention delegates at a state convention rather than through a vote of the people in each Congressional district.

"Both political parties have for several years been moving toward more participation by people in the process of nominating candidates for president," Walker said in his message to the General Assembly. "This bill would reverse this trend."

"There is no reason to give state party leaders blanket authority to bypass the primary election in choosing convention delegates," Walker said.

The legislation contains two other methods of allocating delegates to election by Congressional districts, as well as some minor revisions in the law affecting the state Board of Elections. Walker said he would sign the bill if it contained those provisions as well as an immediate effective date permitting one of the methods to be used in the 1976 primary election.

Walker signed a bill prohibiting the losers in primary elections from attempting to run in the general election as independent candidates.

In the 1974 elections two incumbent legislators from Chicago who lost in the primary won reelection in the general election when they ran as independents.

The governor returned to the General Assembly a bill involving election contests, saying he would sign it if legislators approve his reduction in the charge for filing challenges in close races.

Walker said the $25,000 filing fee in the original bill was "an unreasonable barrier to legitimate contests."

He recommended a $2,500 fee for cases in which the difference between the winner and the loser who is petitioning for a recount is 2 per cent or less of the total votes cast.

Walker vetoed a measure requiring drivers to prove they have auto insurance when they apply for license plates.

The governor said Secretary of State Michael Howlett told him there were many loopholes in the measure, it would be costly and the bill would "not provide any additional legal or administrative avenues" to insure that the 8 per cent of drivers in Illinois who are uninsured would get insurance.

The governor signed legislation to require the state Pollution Control Board to adopt regulations spelling out when existing utilities can operate in violation of sulfur dioxide emission standards.

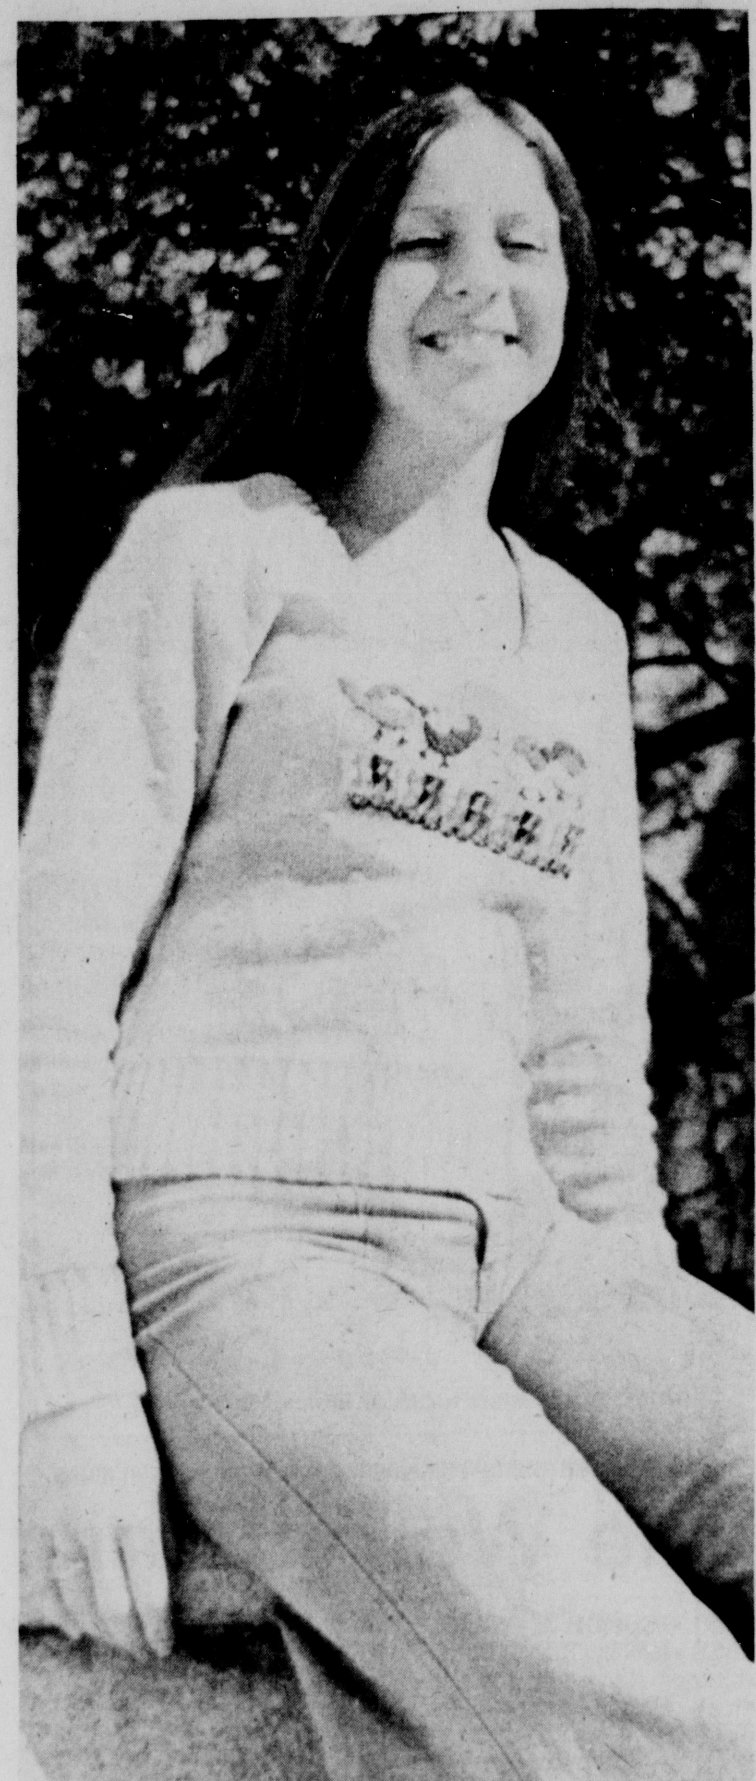

"This bill does not grant an across-the-board extension for the sulfur dioxide compliance date," Walker said. It provides "a mechanism to grant source-by-source sulfur dioxide extensions while utilizing intermittent control systems for a transition period determined by the Pollution Control Board," he said.

There are a number of pollution sources in Illinois and other states which have been unable to meet federal sulfur dioxide standards currently in effect, Walker said.

The governor vetoed a bill which would have allowed members of the General Assembly to transfer pension credits received as city employees into the more generous General Assembly Retirement Fund. The governor earlier had signed a bill transferring elected officials from the state Employees Retirement Fund to the pension system for legislators. But in this case, he said, "it is against sound pension principles to allow the transfer from a lower to a higher pension fund."

Also vetoed was a bill which would have provided special-education students up to $500 in tuition to attend summer sessions at private schools and one which would have permitted local school boards to waive fees for summer school sessions. The governor said the state could not afford the cost of the measures.

A Rotary District information institute was held in Dixon on Friday. A total of 85 Rotarians, representing 32 clubs from District 642, attended the one-day planning and discussion meeting presented by Ken Evers of Edwardsville, a representative of Rotary International. Shown, left to right, are Mike Schrauth, Dixon Rotary president; Evers and District Governor John Doak of Freeport, who acted as host. The goal of the institute program was to create a better program of Rotary information on the club level, to build membership and to stimulate greater membership involvement in club activities. Through the many ideas discussed, the District clubs should have great help in continuing the work of the Rotary theme "Service Above Self."

Probation, fine for Chicago Heights man

Jerry L. Smith, 33, Chicago Heights, was placed on one year's probation and fined $300 Friday after he pleaded guilty to contributing to the sexual delinquency of a minor.

Smith appeared before Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales. He was initially charged by sheriff's deputies on July 21 with taking indecent liberties with a child. The charge stems from incidents occurring at Woodhaven Lakes involving two girls, ages 13 and 14.

Other dispositions in Lee County Circuit Court included:

Jon Webster, 21, Dixon Hotel, placed on one year's probation and fined $100 after he pleaded guilty to theft. The charge stemmed from the theft of a flashlight and hat from a Dixon Police squad car.

Donald McInerney, Oak Forest, fined $300 on an amended charge of reckless driving. He was originally charged by state police with driving while intoxicated Sept. 8.

Harvey Talbott, 17, 932 Franklin Grove Rd., and William F. Smith, 17, 1510 W. First St., each fined $25 on conviction for disorderly conduct.

Trash fire at White House is quelled

Fire fighters from the Dixon Rural Fire Department responded to the report of a fire at the White House, Rt. 5, a restaurant located northwest of Dixon.

After arriving at the scene, heavy smoke was discovered coming from a large trash container at the east end of the building. One side of the container lid was closed and smoke was coming from it but no fire had actually ignited. The fire was discovered by a merchant police officer, who notified the Law Enforcement Center. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Friday, a false alarm was turned into the Rural Fire Department from the Nachusa House.

Focus on hunger at Newman

STERLING — Newman Central Catholic High School observed special activities Friday, bring to the awareness of students the plight of the hungry in the world.

The school's Liturgy Commission planned the day which began with a before-school prayer service, a Mass for the starving in the world, in the school chapel.

The rest of the day's activities consisted of movies on the world hunger problem, shown during every period in the day, open to all students who were in study hall or free at the time. In addition to the prayers and movies, posters and signs made by the students were put up in the building and a collection was taken up in homeroom.

The students were urged to "feel hungry" or to go without a meal or eating between meal that day in sympathy with the millions starving in the world.

St. Charles driver charged

Lee County Sheriff's Deputies arrested a St. Charles man early today and charged him with driving while intoxicated and improper lane usage.

Warren Anderson, 46, was arrested on the two charges after a patrolling squad stopped his car at U.S. 52 and Mormon Road. Anderson has posted bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Oct. 16.

Orphanage to share in winnings

CHICAGO (AP) — A 65-year-old retired machinist says a recent donation to an orphanage brought him the luck that led him to a $26,000 top prize in the Play-Off game of the Illinois State Lottery.

Chicagoan Andrew Koval said Friday he would show his appreciation by sending the same orphanage a $100 check today.

Koval, who called himself a gambler, also said he would take his wife to Las Vegas, Nev. and "blow a little money. She's been feeling a little ill."

Money also will be set aside for the education of his four great-grandchildren, he said. Koval is guaranteed at least another $10,000 when he competes for a $1 million grand prize Jan. 9 in the Super Bowl Millionaire.

Joseph Bilyeu of Chatham, James Marik of Evergreen Park and Antonio Echevarria of Chicago each won $8,000, while Lawrence Langenhahn of Pekin went home with $3,000.

Alumni plan homecoming activities

MT. MORRIS — Alumni of Mt. Morris high school are being invited to take part in a full round of homecoming activities Oct. 4. The Mounders football team plays Winnebago in the annual homecoming game.

The Mt. Morris Alumni Association will serve a chili supper in the high school cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m. and alumni and visitors are invited to attend. The frosh-soph game will start at 6 p.m. and the varsity game at 8 p.m.

Following the games, the Alumni Association will sponsor a dance for alumni at the Mt. Morris VFW. Tickets will be available at the door.

Greg Unger is president of the Alumni Association this year, Jan Messer is vice president, and Nancy McGee is secretary-treasurer.

YFU student to live in Ohio

OHIO—The Harry Chase family plans to host a student from South American January to July, 1976, through the Youth for Understanding program in which Ohio has participated the last several years.

Plans are being made now for Ohio students to go abroad on the summer program in 1976. Keith Yucus will visit Japan, at least one other student is interested in going.

Expenses for the summer program are $1,180. The Youth for Understanding Committee will soon be contacting all local organizations requesting donations to assist with these expenses. Previously, the Ohio organization has supplied half the expenses for a student, it is hoped that this may again be accomplished. Individual donations will also be accepted at the school office or by Mrs. Ed Yucus, 376-6641.

Square dance is scheduled

Lucky Leafs Square Dance Club will host a free dance Saturday evening, at the Bertolet Building, 8 to 11 p.m., in Leaf River. Joe McKeown from Janesville will be the caller for this special dance as part of the Leaf River Bi-Centennial celebration. Finger food will be served after the dance.

St. Anne Sodality plan to meet

SUBLETTE—The regular meeting of the St. Anne Sodality will be held Thursday in St. Mary's School basement. A mass will precede the meeting. There will be a salad bar and guests are welcome.

The entertainment of the evening will be furnished by Mrs. Alena Ostergrant of Dixon.

Members of the band are: Mrs. Arthur Bulfer, chairman; Mrs. Gene Sondgeroth, co-chairman; Mrs. George Thier, Mrs. Charles Kuebel, Mrs. Don Marschang, Mrs. Floyd Fry, Mrs. Don Vincent, Mrs. Paul Vaessen, Miss Tillie Full, Mrs. Gilbert Klein, and Mrs. Roger Truckenbrod.

Streator nips Dixon 7-6 in NCIC opener

The Bulldogs get the most points

By MIKE CUNNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor
STREATOR — Ron Koessler, Dixon assistant varsity football coach, when asked which team would win the NCIC opener between the Dukes and Streator Friday night, hedged and replied, "The team who scores the most points will win."

Truer words were never spoken and even though the scoreboard at the final buzzer listed Dixon with nine points and Streator with seven; it was Dukes who were saddled with the loss. The final official score was 7-6 with a Dixon missed extra point run providing the difference between the loss and a victory.

Score Malfunction
The Streator scoreboard malfunctioned with the visitor's score appearing as nine throughout the evening. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs' offense also malfunctioned to a certain extent as the Dukes held a 270-151 edge in net yards gained but as in all games, statistics are nice but the final score is where it is all at.

Dixon dropped its fourth game in succession for the '75 season despite the advantage in the figures while Streator upped its overall record to 3-1. After a scoreless first quarter, the Bulldogs took over on downs on their own 27-yard line with 10:15 remaining in the half.

It took eight snaps of the ball for Streator to find the end zone. Fullback Mike Massino went up the middle for a gain of eight before being stopped by Jeff Webb and Dan Kopacz. The Bulldogs quarterback Pat Benning then found tight end George Ralph over the middle for a gain of 23.

A Pitch Out
A pitch out to Jeff Hardgrove picked up 16 but the play was negated by a clip. Faced with first and 25, Streator lost another yard on the next play as Dan Frost and Mike Swegle dropped Massino behind the line of scrimmage.

Jim Schmitz, the tail back, then swung out of the back field to take a short pass from Benning. Schmitz broke a pair of tackles and sped upfield for a gain of 21 yards to the Dixon 33.

Schmitz came back for a pick up of six before fumbling the ball but Streator maintained possession. Massino got two (tackled by Steven Fischer and Doug Devine) before Bill Donelson raked up 22 yards on his first rushing attempt of the evening.

For the Score
The 22-yard burst was up the middle and Donelson came right back to plunge three yards (up the middle) for the touchdown with 6:52 to go. Terry

Beer provided the all-important extra point via a kick.
Dixon marched 87 yards in the third frame for its score. The Dukes downed a Scott Behrens 52-yard punt on the 13 as Mike McDonald had trouble handling the boot. Dixon utilized just under four minutes to tally, using a mixture of runs and passes.

Mike LeBlanc, who was to end with 58 yards in 11 attempts, circled left end for five and then burst up the middle for 17 more before being wrestled to turf by Hardgrove. LeBlanc got his third successive call and responded with a gain of eight yards on a spinning, twisting dash through the middle.

Webb Was Thrown
Webb was thrown for a loss of three (Gary Huff and Dan Kotansky combination tackle) before McDonald went over center for a half dozen yards. Webb then whipped a quick pass to Ed Bushman for a gain of nine.

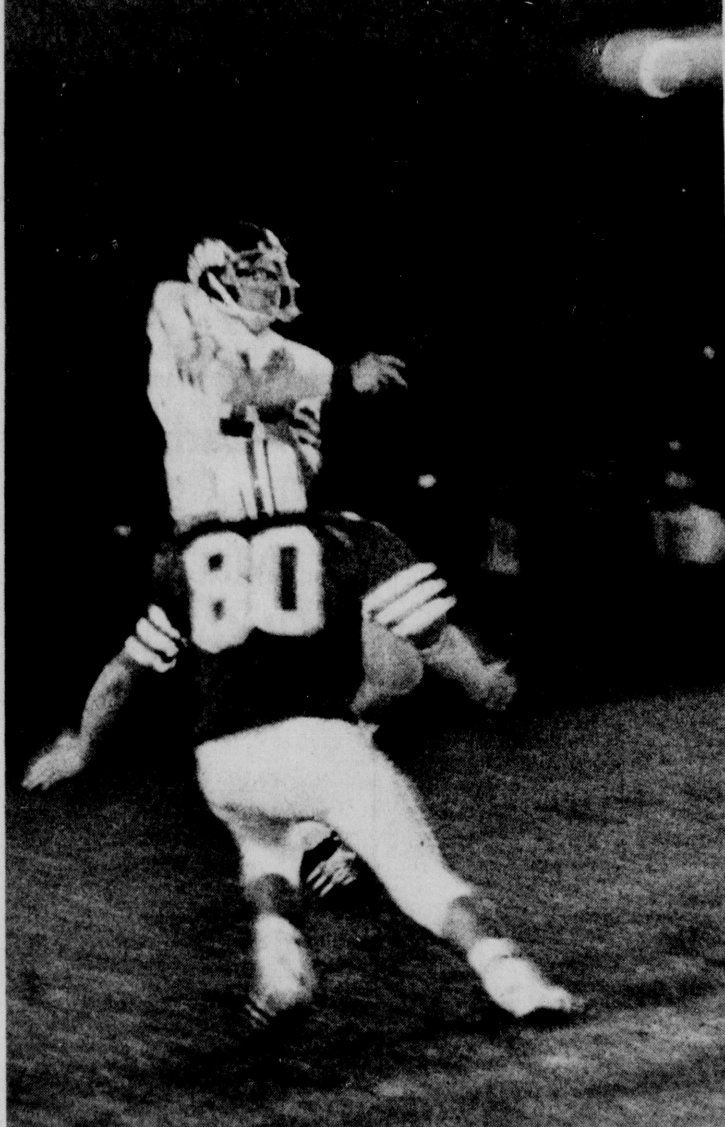

McDonald picked up two before going 44 yards for the touchdown. McDonald went over the middle and then cut back to the left to outrun all pursuit. LeBlanc's dash for the two-point conversion was thwarted, however, when Joe Rodriguez came up quickly from the outside to dump the Dukes' senior halfback.

Dixon had one more threat only to turn the ball over on an Chuck Teegardin interception with 5:50 left in the game. After a Streator punt (34 yards) downed at the Dukes 16, the Purple-and-White got to the Streator 19 where Teegardin pilfered the Webb aerial.

To Fischer
LeBlanc rushed two times for two yards and Webb completed a pass to Fischer for seven plus a 44-yarder to LeBlanc on a screen over the middle. Streator jumped offsidies on the play but the penalty was declined by Dixon. LeBlanc nearly broke the pass for six points but had to delay as Vince Melendrez set up the final block. The fraction of a second he had to wait cost LeBlanc as good pursuit by the Bulldogs finally caught up.

LeBlanc then got nothing, the Dukes were penalized five yards for delay of game and Webb missed on a screen to Fischer when Jeff Yusco applied a heavy rush. On third down, Webb's pass for Fischer over the middle was grabbed by Teegardin.

The Bulldogs then moved steadily upfield as Donelson cracked the line four times for 29 yards including a 17-yard scamper on the first play (when he evaded five tacklers) to get Streator out of a hole.

JEFF WEBB, Dixon quarterback, unloads a pass despite a heavy rush by Streator's Dan Kotansky, in the fourth quarter of the Dukes-Bulldogs NCIC game at Streator Friday night. Webb's toss was complete to Mike LeBlanc over the middle for 47 yards to move the ball to the Streator 27. Dixon declined an offside penalty on Streator on the play but the scoring drive fizzled on an interception. (Telegraph Photo)

Couple Passes
Benning also mixed in a couple of passes in the onslaught, hitting Ralph with a quick toss over the middle for a gain of 11 and Dave Pelligrine with a 10-yard success over left end. With first and 10 on the Dixon 30 and 2:21 remaining, Benning went back to pass and was dropped for a loss of seven by Swegle.

Swegle, Frost and Melendrez duplicated the effort on the next play by swarming over Benning for a minus eight. Then, on third down, Frost blitzed for another loss of six. A punt followed with the ball being downed on the Dixon 16 with :50 showing.

A Webb to Melendrez aerial gained eight and a personal foul penalty on the play added 15 more. Hardgrove shoved Melendrez out-of-bounds,

Newman is 2-0 in Three Rivers

STERLING— Four different Newman Comets tallied touchdowns, here, Friday night as the Blue-and-White defeated the Savanna Indians 25-12 in a Three Rivers football game. The victory moved Newman into a tie with Fulton for the top spot in the Three Rivers standings.

Jeff Kelly, Chuck Ruiz and Jim Nieman gave the Comets a 19-0 half-time lead. Kelly broke a 47-yard run on the second play of the game, with Joe Diaz booting the extra point. Nieman then fired a 10-yard touchdown pass to Ruiz in the second quarter and, after Kelly fell on a Savanna fumble, Nieman scampered six yards for another score.

Phil Hayden went five yards to put Savanna on the scoreboard in the third stanza, but Tom Watkins returned the ensuing kickoff for 85 yards and a touchdown. Gunnar Gunnarson wrapped up the scoring with an 11-yard counter for Savanna in the last 12 minutes.

"We didn't look that sharp," Newman head varsity coach Bob Million stated, "I guess it is just one of those times when it is good to get a bad game out of the way. We just couldn't get any momentum. After the Kelly run in the first quarter, we just seemed like our emotion drained away.

"Curt Repass was outstanding defensively with 16 tackles. Art Ruiz played a tremendous game at nose guard with nine tackles." Million added. Kelly finished with 94 yards rushing. The Comets picked up three fumbles, with Kelly, Nieman and Jim Miller falling on the bobbles.

Newman also picked off three Savanna passes, with Chuck Ruiz, Kelly and Tom Hannan pilfering the aerials. Newman, now 2-0 in Three Rivers action and 3-1 overall, will host Riverdale in homecoming activities next Saturday.

Rochelle blanks Rock Falls 26-0

ROCHELLE — Aaron Fleming scored twice from within the five yard line and Rochelle's defense held Rock Falls to a net of 95 total yards as the Hubs took a 26-0 Southwest conference contest from the Rockets, here, Friday night.

Rochelle jumped into the lead with a first quarter tally as junior halfback Mike Dyer scampered in from the one-yard line. The conversion kick failed and Rochelle kept an early 6-0 advantage.

The Hubs took control in the second quarter pushing 14 points over enroute to their initial conference win of the season. Rock Falls drops to 0-1 in the Southwest conference and 1-3 overall, marking the third consecutive loss by the Rockets after their season opener victory over Morton. Rochelle now possesses a 3-1 overall season record.

Fleming carried across from the four yard marker for the first of two Rochelle TD's in the second period of action. Mike Rand hit Andy Colbert in the endzone for the two-point conversion giving the Hubs a commanding 14-0 lead.

points on a 45 yard run. The attempted extra-point kick failed and when the gun went off Rochelle had a 20-0 half-time margin.

Fleming tallied the final Hubs score on a two yard lunge around left end in the fourth quarter that put the game away for the hosting team. Backs Fleming, Dyer and Wyatt led Rochelle towards a 290 yard bruising ground attack. Rand picked up 76 yards in the air to give the Hubs a dominating 366 total yards on the night in comparison to Rock Falls' 95 total yards.

Walnut loses

WALNUT — Walnut pushed across a fourth quarter touchdown via a Ken Wilcoxon one yard run, but the possible tying extra-point run failed when Pete Miller was stopped at the line as the Blue Raiders dropped their fourth consecutive Blackhawk conference game, here, Friday night to the visiting Bradford Panthers 14-12.

Bradford scored the initial TD on a four yard scamper by Dan Hagwood over the middle in the first quarter. Charles Lane connected on the conversion pass to Jim Code to put the Panthers out in front 8-0.

Walnut then took possession and began a drive that was to push six points across on a 31 yard drive. Pat Dienslake capped the short march on a one yard plunge to bring the Blue Raiders within two. The extra-point run failed and Bradford possessed an 8-6 first quarter lead.

The Panthers' Tim Green brought the crowd to its feet when he picked up Walnut fumble and raced 47 yards for the score. Although the conversion run was unsuccessful, Bradford controlled a 14-6 margin going into the final period of action.

With only 3:30 minutes remaining in the game, Wilcoxon carried it over from one yard out and the Blue Raiders were within two. But when Miller, who outgained the entire Bradford team with 87 yards on 25 carries, was stopped short of the endzone, Walnut was forced to suffer its fourth straight conference loss.

Walnut gained 195 total yards on the night, 134 on the ground and 61 in the air, while Bradford managed only 83 markers — all on the ground. Bradford crawls out of the Blackhawk conference cellar with its 1-3 record as Walnut falls to 0-4 in conference action.

across the surrounding track and up against a picket fence before stoppage of play. The unnecessary continued action cost the Bulldogs 15.

A Big Rush
Huff put on a big rush on the next play and a screen to McDonald was off the mark. Webb then handed off to Melendrez who had to evade a rush to turn the left corner for a gain of four even though he could not get the halfback option pass underway.

Webb hit McDonald in front of Teegardin for eight yards but the final play, a bomb to Bushman was incomplete. Webb ended with 10 of 20 passes for 121 yards. Dixon had 141 yards rushing in 29 carries while Streator was limited to 71 yards in 37 attempts.

Behrens kept the Dukes away from good field position by punting six times for 37 yards. Donelson paced the Bulldogs in rushing with 77 yards in 13 gallops. Swegle led Dixon in tackles with 10 while Frost and Kopacz (seeing his first action in three weeks) added seven each. Devine tackled on six.

Fischer Leads
Fischer was the leading Dukes receiver with four grabs for 17 yards. Melendrez managed 37 yards on three catches.
Dixon will now host Ottawa next Friday.

Ohio wins 40-12, in Little Eight

OHIO — Mike Anderson blasted across for four touchdowns and two conversions, here, Friday night to pace the Ohio Bulldogs to a 40-12 rout over the Tiskilwa Indians in a Little Eight Conference football game.

The win upped Ohio's Little Eight ledger to 2-1 and its season slate to 3-1. Tiskilwa falls to 2-1 and 2-2, respectively. The Bulldogs piled a 3380-172 advantage in net yardage, including a 254-93 edge in rushing.

Anderson gained 149 yards on the ground and also completed a 76-yard touchdown pass to Dan Piper. Anderson opened the scoring with an 18-yard burst and conversion run in the first quarter, but Tiskilwa rallied to make it 8-6 as Ken Fisher tossed a 35-yard scoring aerial to Stan Harmon.

Anderson tallied on a 31-yard dash and Piper bolted over from three yards out to make it 20-6 at half. The Indians narrowed the gap to 20-12 in the third frame as Fisher found Harmon for 44 yards and six points.

Three Ohio touchdowns wrapped it up in the final 12 minutes. Anderson scored on a one-yard plunge and then came back to zip 28 yards for his fourth touchdown of the evening. Piper ended the scoring by taking a halfback option pass from Anderson for 76 yards and a touchdown. Anderson tacked on the conversion run.

Piper finished with 64 yards rushing and the 76-yard pass reception. Ohio ended with 20 first downs, with 18 via the ground. The Bulldogs now travel to La Moille next Friday for another key Little Eight encounter.

Waddelow gets away

Mt. Morris quarterback Dan Waddelow (10), who threw for three touchdowns, is shown in this third-quarter play squirming away from an unidentified Polo player while Mike Byrd (32) of the Marcos moves in for the tackle. Polo won the seesaw contest 22-19. (Telegraph Photo)

Polo nips Mt. Morris 22-19

By CONNI DETTMAN

POLO—As in a replay of Aesop's fable of "The Tortoise and the Hare," the Polo Marcos changed a slow start into well-executed moves leading to the final 22-19 victory at the finish over the Mt. Morris Mounders, here, Friday night.

The Mounders played the hare and very confidently moved into the early lead. Mt. Morris started its first drive after the Marcos fumbled the ball on a first and 10 play at their own 32-yard line.

Don Claussen picked up a couple of yards for the Mounders, but a series of losses set Mt. Morris back to fourth and a long 10 yards. Quarterback Dan Waddelow then uncorked a pass to Ron Alden, who ran it over the end line for the touchdown. Kevin Windett kicked the extra point to put the Mounders ahead 7-0.

The Marcos again took the ball and started to drive for their first score, but a pass on the third down and six yard to go was intercepted by Ken Diehl. A clipping penalty against the Mounders gave them position on the 33-yard line, with first down and 10 yards to go.

The Mounders again tried to pick up yardage on the ground but a hard-hitting Polo defense kept the opposition from breaking through the line. On a third down and seven yards play, the Mounders were forced to to a passing play. Waddelow connected on a long one to Claussen for the second touchdown for the visiting team. Dave Stahl was nailed behind the line of scrimmage on the two-point conversion attempt.

Polo, still without a strong momentum going, received the ball and started another drive. A penalty against the Mounders put the Marcos near midfield with a first and 10-yards situation, but Polo was too anxious and, following an off sides penalty, the home team was faced with a second down and 13 yards to go. The Marcos fumbled on the second down play and after quarterback Jeff Grobe was nailed for a short loss, Polo kicked to the Mounders.

With only minutes left in the first quarter, Mt. Morris took the ball and started a drive which ended in their own territory on a fourth-and-two play. The last play of the quarter was the Moulder punt to the Marcos' Scott Bartelt, who ran the ball to their own 30-yard line when the gun went off.

The Marcos still had not picked up momentum in the second quarter, while the Mounders continued to pour on the steam. While Polo was struggling to pick up yardage on the ground, the opposing Mt.

Morris squad forced them into mistakes. Until midway through the second quarter, the Marcos were hindered by a tough defensive Moulder line and several bad passes. Then, like the tortoise did, Polo began to make its move.

The Marcos started a drive on their 28-yard line after Mt. Morris kicked with nine yards to go on a fourth down play. Randy Witmer took the ball for the home team and slipped up the middle for a seven-yard pick-up. Tim Mount got the first down and, following an off-side penalty against the Mounders, Polo took the ball first down with five yards to go.

Another series of plays and a declined penalty against Mt. Morris put the ball on the Moulder 18-yard line, with a new series of downs for the home team. Ray Schmidt picked up 11 yards for Polo to give his team a first and goal on the seven-yard line.

Mount then almost walked through a wide open hole in the middle of the opponents' line and took the ball into the end zone for the score. The two-point conversion was good as Scott Smith took a pass from Grobe. The score put Polo on the board, but the Mounders still led 13-8.

Both teams played even through most of the third quarter. The defensive teams were hitting hard and prevented the rushing offense from the opposition from breaking the line.

But, like the fable, the tortoise had not used its energy and was saving it for the end of the race. Only minutes remained in the third quarter when the Mounders kicked to Polo. Bartelt took the ball and ran it back for 60 yard into the end zone, for the Marcos second touchdown of the evening. Smith took the ball into the end zone for the two-point conversion and put Polo into the lead, 16-13.

Mt. Morris regained the lead on another passing bomb. The score came on a 71-yard pass and run effort as Waddelow and Claussen teamed up. The extra point effort failed and the Mounders had a 19-16 edge showing on the board.

Polo took the ball but was forced to give it up to Mt. Morris. The Mounders could do nothing against the tough Polo defense, so were forced to kick the ball away again. Smith took the ball for the Marcos on his own 20-yard line and ran around the opposition, taking it into the end zone for an 80-yard touchdown run. The two-point conversion pass to Smith failed, but Polo regained the lead, 22-19, and scored what was to be the last points in the game.

Kump touchdown gives Hawks win

OREGON—Mike Kump plunged across from one yard out with but 16 seconds remaining in the game as Oregon dumped the Byron Tigers 26-22 in an exciting Mid-Northern conference battle, here, Friday evening. The score seasawed throughout the contest, but Oregon came on top bringing its conference record to 1-1-1.

The Hawks tallied first in the initial quarter of action on a Kump one-yard scamper. A Bill Fearer extra-point kick split the uprights, giving the Hawks an early 7-0 lead.

Byron wasted no time in scoring its first points of the night, as Brian Hoglund raced 82 yards from scrimmage on the first play after Oregon's TD. Hoglund loped in on the conversion run, giving Byron an 8-7 lead.

Again the points came zoom-zoom as Oregon placed the go-ahead touchdown on the board immediately after the Byron score. Senior end Dan Satterfield took the kickoff after the visiting team TD and raced 83 yards unscathed into the end zone as Oregon regained the elusive lead. The extra-point attempt failed but the Hawks took a 13-6 lead into the locker room at half-time.

Each team tallied in the third quarter on long runs as Oregon held onto the tough-to-keep lead, 19-14, after three periods. Byron's Doug Raber sprinted 64 yards early in the third quarter before Oregon's Ed Smith raced 60 yards down the right sideline on the second play after Byron's TD.

Hoglund scampered across from 11 markers out in the final period of action as Byron once again took the lead 22-19. But the 16-second plunge by Kump grabbed victory from the jaws of defeat.

Byron now possesses a 0-3 Mid-Northern record while Oregon gains its first conference win of the season to go along with one defeat and one tie.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Williamsburg was the capital of Virginia from 1699 to 1780 and was most important as a political and cultural center. Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, George Mason, George Wythe, Edmund Randolph and other leading patriots served as burghesses here. They debated and resolved the issues that resulted in many of our democratic concepts, and played major roles in the movement for independence. The World Almanac recalls.

Red Sox sweep

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
Boston Manager Darrell Johnson was smiling from the top of his red cap to the tips of his Red Sox.
Pressure? What pressure? "I haven't felt any and I don't think any of the players have, either," Johnson said Friday night after Boston swept a two-night doubleheader from Cleveland by 4-0 scores and cruised closer to an American League East Division crown.
"The pressure's on Baltimore," added outfielder Dwight Evans. "The magic number is two and we're in the driver's seat."
Well then, the Red Sox better get some maps for the roads to Oakland and the American League playoffs. Right, Darrell?
Not just yet.
"We're going to go out there and try and win two more from Cleveland," said Johnson. "Then we can start thinking about Oakland and the playoffs. We can't think about Baltimore losing."
Baltimore hasn't even been able to play since Wednesday. Rain continued to cloud their title hopes Friday by wiping out a scheduled two-nighter with the New York Yankees. Any combination of Boston victories and Baltimore losses adding to two will decide baseball's last pennant race.
Meanwhile, the other AL clubs came a day closer to autumn and vacation. Milwaukee blanked Detroit 3-0, Kansas City clubbed Texas 8-6, Minnesota trimmed Chicago 2-1 and Oakland beat California 4-2.
Brewers 3, Tigers 0
George Scott drove in three runs with two homers—taking the AL lead in HRs with 36 and

A high price might keep you from buying a new home. But a low price shouldn't.

A Wausau Home costs thousands of dollars less than comparable homes. Because of the way we buy materials and the efficiency of our controlled building system.

For example, every Wausau Home is built with the finest grade kiln-dried lumber. 100% copper plumbing. Real ceramic tile walls and floors in the bath.

We buy the very best and we buy in quantity. Which lowers the price, not the quality. And we build under the very best conditions, indoors, out of the weather.

Stop by for a close look at a Wausau Home. But don't let our low prices scare you. That shouldn't keep you from buying the new home you want.

Welcome Home.

The Doctor Says:

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Sept. 27, the 270th day of 1975. There are 95 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1964, the Warren Commission issued its report which concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone in assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

On this date: In 1779, John Adams was appointed to negotiate a Revolutionary War peace treaty with Britain.

In 1904, a woman was arrested for smoking a cigarette on New York's Fifth Avenue.

In 1939, during World War Two, Warsaw, Poland was surrendered to the Germans after 19 days of resistance.

In 1940, also during the Second World War, a pact was signed in Germany setting up the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis.

In 1945, Japan's Emperor Hirohito broke all precedent for Japanese royalty by calling on General Douglas MacArthur at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo.

Ten years ago: The United Nations Security Council demanded that India and Pakistan honor their commitment to observe a cease-fire in Kashmir.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon began a European trip with a visit to Italy. One year ago: Mrs. Gerald Ford was hospitalized to determine whether she was suffering from breast cancer.

Thought for today: Freedom of speech does not give a person the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theater — Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, 1841-1936.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're not overly patient with the family today. If everyone's walking around the house with a long face, you may be to blame.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Giving orders comes easy to you today. However, if you want others to follow your edicts, you'd better try to set a good example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you've committed yourself to picking up the tab today, first check the prices or you'll make a king-size dent in your wallet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others will make such heavy demands on your time you won't have much to yourself. Put your dreams away for another day.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) You will be hypersensitive today. Weigh what others say or you'll mistake a sincere comment for a put-down.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Have fun with friends today, but don't mix in money or things of a material nature. If you do, hard feelings will result.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Normally, you're very considerate of others' feelings. Today, you'll be so intent on having your way you'll get someone's hackles up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov 22) Be content to let sleeping dogs lie. You're likely to unwittingly dredge up some old, unpleasant issue that could be very disturbing to a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) It's a losing proposition to give business advice to a friend today. If the situation doesn't pan out, he'll blame you for his failure.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) You're not a good team player today. Avoid getting into a situation where you must rely on a partner. Neither will be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Where usually you're willing to lend a helping hand, today you will resent it deeply if anyone asks for a favor.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Take no risks today when someone else is calling the shots. If you can't be captain of your own ship, pass the action.

Your Birthday
Sept. 28, 1975

Events and conditions will force you to be extremely ambitious this coming year. Just be sure to repay favors to anyone who's helped on the way up.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing to you about my brother. What happens to a boy 15 years old who has asthma and smokes one cigarette in the morning and another one in the evening? I don't want my brother to know I wrote you.
DEAR READER — Your secret is safe. Most people who have asthma cannot tolerate cigarette smoke well. It often acts as an irritant to the lungs and increases asthma attacks and their severity.
Two cigarettes a day in a normal person isn't much, but anyone who has any lung problem should not invite disaster by starting the habit. Two a day is a starter on the way to more a day and increased lung disease as well as other health problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does fluoridation of the water supply have any beneficial effects on the prevention of broken hips, spinal collapse, and other bone fractures of the elderly? Recently I broke my hip, and the doctor prescribed fluoride tablets.
Our community has tried for years to have the water supply fluoridated, but it has been effectively blocked by opponents with archaic arguments. Are there any statistics that would back us up as far as bone fractures are concerned?

DEAR READER — This is an emotionally charged issue. The pros are supported by the results of fluoridation of water on prevention of dental decay, and the cons point out that fluorine is poison. It is, but so is oxygen if you get too much and chlorine in the hydrochloric acid normally formed by your stomach. Almost all of our natural environment is poisonous if we are exposed to the wrong amounts.

The American Medical Assn.'s (AMA) latest recommendations were published in their journal recently (1975). The AMA has evaluated controlled studies of fluoridation of water since 1945. Their report emphasizes that no adverse effects have been noted in people using water with fluoride within the recommended levels. They recommend 0.7 to 1.2 parts per million (ppm) of fluoride in all drinking water. The AMA recommendations go on to note the benefits derived for the teeth, and, of interest to you, further notes that it might be useful in preventing osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis is the softening of bones that occurs with age. It increases the chances of having a fracture of the hip, arms, or anywhere else for that matter, even with a minor fall.
Osteoporosis is caused by many factors unrelated to the amount of fluoride in your water or diet. It is more apt to occur with a calcium deficient diet and follows the period when sex hormone production declines.

A number of outstanding clinics (including Mayo's) do use a combination of fluoride, calcium, sex hormones, and vitamin D individually or in combination depending on the patient and the clinic. Fluoride has been reported to be of major benefit.
I have had some questions about the difference between fluoride and fluorine. The ending "ide" means salt. The chemical union of sodium and chlorine forms table salt, sodium chloride.
